

Today, I met with local members of the Association of Flight Attendants. With O'Hare Airport in our community, many 10th District residents spend their days traveling across the nation, particularly with United Airlines.

During the meeting, we discussed critical issues facing flight attendants and the airline industry. We discussed the need to improve airline security, extending the Family Medical Leave Act and the future of airline competition.

As someone who is on an airplane several times a week between O'Hare and Washington, I am grateful for the opportunity to hear the concerns of those who fly everyday.
